

Find a Mentor Who Will Elevate You to the Next Level:

1. Recognize legal and operational areas of your practice that are weakest, methods you have that currently hold back your success (better marketing or business development, for example).
2. Commit to raising your game in any of these areas; don't just brush it off, that you are "no good" in that area.
3. Find a very specific mentor who can help you raise your game, seasoned in an area that is your weakest. With this new guidance, create a step-by-step plan to improve the troublesome practices you have been maintaining, elevating your platform and fostering success.